Research Investment Returns Dividends To OSU

Press Release

An Oklahoma State University program that invests and assists with technology commercialization has returned to the university $4.50 for every $1 invested, according to the Technology Development Center, which launched the program a decade ago. The gap fund has given a $2.37 million financial boost to more than 100 OSU technology developments with more than two dozen becoming businesses.